MEMORIES FROM THE HEART

HEADMISTRESS' MESSAGE

This memory book provides us with the opportunity to visit some of those special times in 2000-2001. Through the photographs, the story of the school year is captured and the precious moments are there for us to visit whenever we wish. Christmas Wishes, retreats, Spirit Week, sports, Dashabustard drama, la semaine du français, and the many other activities to repose between these pages.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank this year's memorybook co-editors, Meredith Brooks and Alessandra Pansera, their advisor, Ms. Bichsel, and everyone who helped make this publication possible.

To the Class of 2001, I congratulate you on your individual and collective achievements. I wish each of you success and happiness for the future and I trust that the time you have spent at Sacred Heart will serve as a guide to help you navigate your future paths. As you undertake life's journey, consider what Ralph Waldo Emerson said about success:

"To laugh often and much;
To win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children;
To earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends;
to appreciate beauty;
To find the best in others;
To leave the world a bit better,
whether by a healthy child, a garden patch
or a redeemed social condition;
To know even one life has breathed easier
because you have lived;
This is to have succeeded."

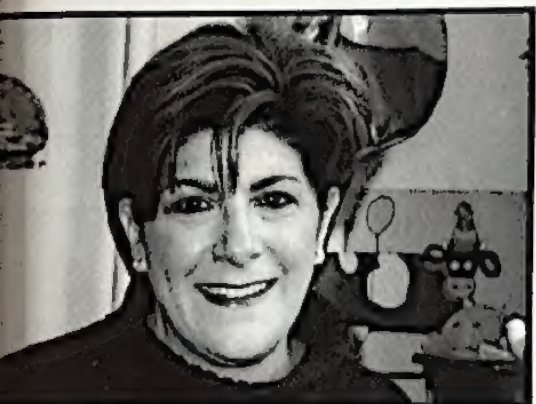

Elaine Brooks
Headmistress

ADMINISTRATION

Ribbons, Prizes, Dashabustaad, Gouter and General Instruction are just a few of the terms which only graduates of The Sacred Heart School of Montreal are able to relate to. Your Memory Book is what the title states, a compilation of memories of your days when you were a student at this school. Cherish these memories as long as you can. Remember the friends that you made while you were a student and take the opportunity to return to the school whenever you can, especially when it comes time for your class reunion. Each and every graduating class holds a special place in our heart and the Class of 2001 is no exception. You have been well prepared for the next step in your life. I extend my best wishes to each and every one of you and good luck in the future.

Peter Kousik

Dear Class of 2001,

It seems like only yesterday that you were writing your entrance exams and here you are getting ready to embark on the next leg of your journey. My wish for each one of you is that you enjoy the journey and find what will make you happy. Life will not always treat you fairly but your response to these challenges will determine the person you are. Seek to contribute rather than to receive. Always be honest and compassionate. Know that you are unique and that there is no one quite like you. Celebrate that and share your special gifts in order to make this world a better place. "So you're off to Great Places! Today is your day! Your mountain is waiting. So...get on your way." (Dr. Seuss)

Rosanne DelTorto

Dear Graduates,

As you prepare to leave The Sacred Heart School of Montreal and enter the next phase of your life and education I wish to extend an invitation to remain connected to the School. It is the mandate of the Alumnae and Development Office to facilitate this connection. We work with the Alumnae Association and the Administration of the Sacred Heart to identify social opportunities and co-ordinate them for your benefit. We also offer you the opportunity to show your appreciation of what the Sacred Heart has given you by asking you to support various fund raising projects which will help keep the Sacred Heart a leader in the field of education. Please accept my personal congratulations and best wishes for a successful and fulfilling life.

Don Belec

To the Graduating Class of 2001

Through diligence and hard work, you have achieved one major milestone in your life, High School Graduation. When you look back at the five years you spent at Sacred Heart you will be reminded of all the fond memories; your friends, the Faculty and Staff, who helped you through these good times. The school itself is wiser for having had your presence and will be here to welcome you, when you visit. So go forward with a strong sense of the Sacred Heart values and make us proud of your achievements, in your chosen field of endeavor. Congratulations, God bless and good luck!

DEPARTMENT HEAD

To Teach is to Touch a Life Forever

We Salute Your Many Years of Service

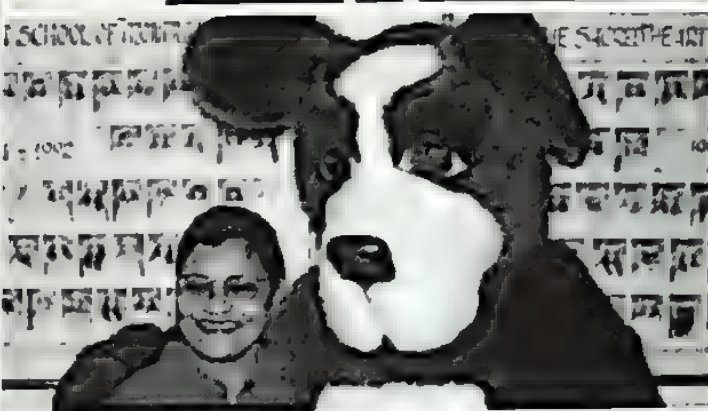

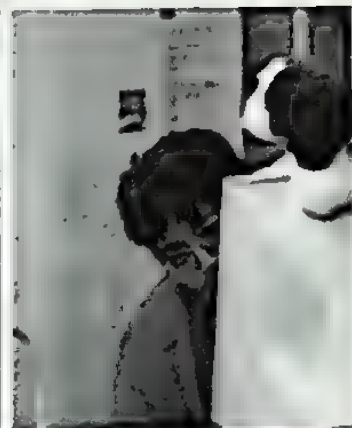

"We have not wings, we cannot soar;
But we have feet to scale and climb
By slow degrees, by more and more,
The cloudy summits of our time.

The mighty pyramids of stone
That wedge-like cleave the desert airs
When nearer seen, the better know,
Are but gigantic flights of stairs.

The distant mountains, that uprear
Their solid bastions to the skies
Are crossed by pathways, that appear
As we to higher levels rise.

The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

Henry Longfellow

FROM THE DESK OF THE EDITORS

"Work is the greatest thing in the world. So we should save some of it for tomorrow."

(Don Herold)

This year's memory book has been a year long project, involving many hours of dedication. Neither of us could have ever imagined the amount of work that is needed to create a yearbook. Thank you to Ms. Bichsel for all her hard work and guidance. We also thank Mrs. Brooks and the administration, especially Mr. Salman and Mr. Belec, the faculty and the students for all their support. Thank you, last but not least to the amazing yearbook staff of 2000-2001. "Nothing is particularly hard if you divide it into small jobs." (Henry Ford) We wish the best of luck to the 2001-2002 yearbook editors. Merci beaucoup a tous le monde, et nous souhaitons que vous aimez ce livre de memoire. Thank you and we hope you enjoy this memory book.

I'll Remember

by Madonna

Say good-bye to not knowing when
 The truth in my whole life began
 Say good-bye to not knowing how to cry
 You taught me that

And I'll remember the strength that you gave me
 Now that I'm standing on my own
 I'll remember the way that you saved me
 I'll remember

Inside I was a child
 That could not mend a broken wing
 Outside I looked for a way
 To teach my heart to sing

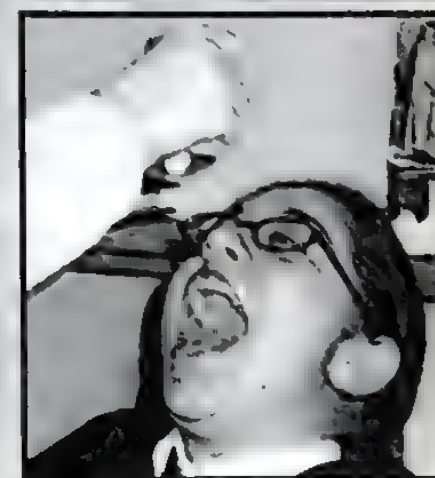

And I'll remember the love that you gave me
 Now that I'm standing on my own
 I'll remember the way that you changed me
 I'll remember

I learned to let go of the illusion that we can possess
 I learned to let go, I travel in stillness
 And I'll remember happiness
 I'll remember

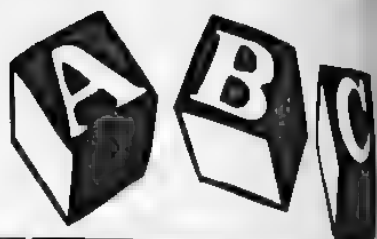

And I'll remember the love that you gave me
 Now that I'm standing on my own
 I'll remember the way that you changed me
 I'll remember

No I've never been afraid to cry
 Now I finally have a reason why
 I'll remember

No I've never been afraid to cry
 Now I finally have a reason why
 I'll remember...

HOUSES

BARAT

Parmal Gahunia, Barat Househead

To all my 'beary' special Barat Bears,

I cannot tell you how much of a privilege it has been being your househead. I have loved being your househead and I would like to thank all of you for being a great part of my life. I would also like to thank some very special people who have contributed to making this year as wonderful as it was. To Ms O'Neill, I could not have asked for a better advisor. To Carolina, you are my rock, I could not have made it without you. To Nikki, your house spirit is an inspiration, thank you. To Chrissy, you are a wonderful person and a great co-captain and we miss you very much. To all my Baratians, I love you all and will miss the house.

With lots of love,

Parmal

DIGBY

Tania Conca, Digby Househead

D-I-G-B-Y Digby is the best! What a year we have had! The memories of all your smiling faces and boundless spirit will forever be etched in my mind. Thanks to all the Digbians for "looking interested" while I rambled continuously during a house meeting and supporting all my far fetched ideas! Thank you to Ms Antonini, Mr. Bordonaro, Ms Di Palma, Mme de Ste Mar Ms Lakatos, and Mrs. Richer, for all your support and encouraging smiles! Special hugs to Sarah, Blair, and Kelly for dealing with my spastic moods! I could not have done anything without you! I am really fortunate to have been surrounded by an absolutely amazing group of people. You have made my last year really memorable and I hope I have done the same for you. I will definitely miss all of you. Never forget DIGBY is definitely #1 and don't let anyone tell you differently.

Love always,

Tania

DUCHESNE

Manoji Pereira, Duchesne Househead

To all my red-hot bugs: I've had a wonderful year being your House Head. I hold many happy memories and have learned much more than the names of over forty girls! I'd like to especially thank everyone who helped with the huge task of creating a bug, a banner, and skit in time for Duchesne Day. Thanks to Laura, Sabrina, Natasha, and all the girls who helped sew, cut glue, and do any other similar jobs. Thanks to the affiliates for their support. A big thank-you to the most understanding and patient advisor, for whom a House Head could ask, Ms Mastro. Consider yourselves part of the best "family" ever, and continue sharing spirit.

Love,

Manoji

duROUSIER

Olivia Brassard, duRousier Househead

D-U-R-O-U-S-I-E-R Let's go! My fellow Big Bird lovers, you have made me proud to wear my tie! I had an amazing year being househead, but I could not have done it without your spirit, enthusiasm and bright smiles. Special thanks to Pam, Cynthia, and Amelia, the best executive around, and to Miss deMello for her words of wisdom. DuRousians, be proud to wear yellow- and keep on flying!

Love Always,

Olivia

HARDEY

Angela Gillis, Hardey Househead

Dear Hardey,

HARDEY CHECK!(!?) Woooo! Woo! Woo! All hail Queen Aloysia, and the Queen Mum Henrietta! We wore our orange valiantly and did them proud.

Thank you to our fearless leader: our six-foot-tall, orange-band-aid-wearing, Hardey-House-promoting, French gentleman; M. Soret. Special thanks to Jane, the executive and my honorary executive- my brain and friends. House affiliates and all the people, thank you all for always trying your hardest and cheering the loudest. Hardey House is the best, we know it and show it.

Christine and Vera taught me well, and I hope I did well by all of you. House Head was stressful, fun and memorable

Hardeyan for life, smiles,

Angela

SHELDON

Danielle Dufort, Sheldon Househead

Dear Sheldonites,

My experience as house head has been one that I will never forget. Your house spirit and enthusiasm have been encouraging and have made me want to be the best house head I could be. I would like to thank Ms Potter for her guidance and Jessica, C and Clarissa for their support. I hope that this year has been as memorable for you as it has been for me. Never lose your spirit and always remember your turtle pride.

Love always,
Danielle

STUART

Lindsay Charron, Stuart Househead

My blue friends, the time has come for me to say goodbye! After a year of proudly holding the title of Stuart House Head, I can only think of good memories. Five years of being a Stuart member has definitely created a soft spot for blue in my heart. Thank you for making my last year a great one. No house will ever measure up to your uniqueness. You have made my job worthwhile. A special thanks to Jackie, Priya and Josee. Et bien sûr, merci à Mme Habachi qui m'a beaucoup guidé.

Lindsay

TRINCANO

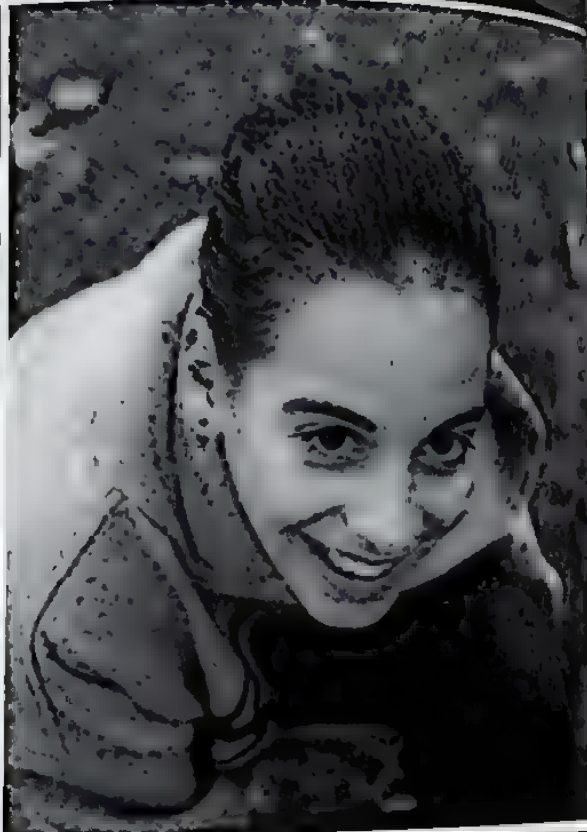

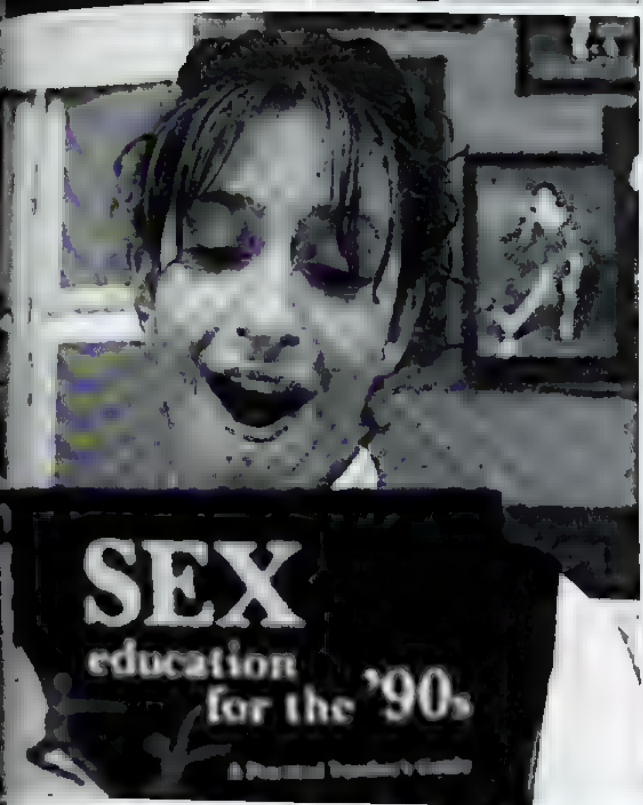

Kristen Lange, Trincano Househead

To all my spirit-filled princesses of purple; thank you for making this year so special for me! Being your househead was the most amazing experience ever and I'm so grateful to everyone of you for making it so memorable! Also, thanks to Ms Gendron for always listening, encouraging, inspiring, and making me smile! Maryann, Natasia, and Helen- what can I say? Nothing would have been possible without your dedication and hard work. Congratulations on a job well done! Keep the spirit alive, Trincano!

Love,
Kristen

"All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages."

All losses are restored and sorrows end."
William Shakespeare, Sonnet XXX

New Friends and Old Friends

Make new friends, but keep the old;
Those are silver these are gold.
New-made friendships, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test -
Time and change - are surely best;
Brow may wrinkle, hair grow gray;
Friendship never knows decay.
For 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die;
New friends must their place supply.
Cherish friendship in your breast -
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old;
Those are silver, these are gold.

The Arrow and the Song

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

-Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

The Human Touch

'Tis the human touch in this world that counts
The touch of your hand and mine,
Which means far more to the fainting heart
Than shelter and bread and wine;
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er,
And bread lasts only a day.
But the touch of the hand and
The sound of the voice
Sing on in the soul away.

The Lover Pleads with his Friend for Old Friends

Though you are in your shining days,
Voices among the crowd
And new friends busy with your praise,
Be not unkind or proud,
But think about old friends the most:
Time's bitter flood will rise,
Your beauty perish and be lost
For all eyes but these eyes.

-William Butler Yeats

A Time to Talk

When a friend calls to me from the road,
And slows his horse to a meaning walk,
I don't stand still and look around
On all the hills I haven't hoed,
And shout from where I am, What is it?
No, not as there is a time to talk,
I thrust my hoe in the mellow ground,
Blade-end up and five feet tall,
And plod: I go up to the stone wall
For a friendly visit.

LA CABANE À SUCRE

Le 6 mars 2001, pendant la semaine du français, toute l'école est partie revivre une journée à la cabane à sucre. La journée fut inoubliable.

Tous ensemble, nous avons ri, chanté, dansé mais surtout apprécié le repas traditionnel du Québec.

Chaque maison avait composé une chanson et c'est la maison Durousier qui a remporté le premier prix pour la meilleure composition.

Félicitations à tout le monde et à l'année prochaine pour une autre cabane à sucre.

SKI TRIP

GIRLS FOR THE CURE

On September 26th, 2000, Sacred Heart, along with Villa Maria, Queen of Angels, Trafalgar, The Study, and E.C.S. participated once again in the Girls for the Cure walk.

Money raised from this walk is donated to the Montreal General Hospital and St. Mary's Hospital for technological advances in the area of breast cancer.

$ 192 000 was raised by the six schools. $56 000 was raised by Sacred Heart alone!

The walk could not have happened without the help of many organizers and sponsors. Members of the committee from Sacred Heart who helped to make this happen were Olivia Brassard, Katherine Sullivan, Romina Perri, Lisa Sew, and Stephania Simeone.

Thank you to all who made it happen, and to all those who walked for a better future.

WALK-A-THON

On May 5th, Sacred Heart, Queen of Angels Academy, Villa Maria, and Loyola participated in the 2001 Walk-a-Thon. It was a resounding success and raised over $60 000 for the Mark Rennie Fund. Sacred Hearts' contribution totalled over $9 000! Members of the Sacred Heart Committee who helped to make this happen were: Linda Tan, Natacha Lam, and Amanda Cavaleri.

The Mark Rennie Fund was established by CJAD Radio in order to commemorate Mark Rennie who died of a brain tumour in 2000.

This donation aided the Mark Rennie Fund in reaching its goal of building a facility for people with brain tumours in Montreal.

ACADEMICS

MIRROR, MIRROR

We are individuals- who have qualities and talents that make us unique.

Differences that separate us for better or for worse.

We are cowards- shattered by those who overpower us.

Filled with revenge for every insult against us.

We are in charge of our own paths. Our lives were not meant to be determined by our parents-

So that they could fix their mistakes through us.

We are your past and future. We are afflicted by the choices made long ago.

And we are your hope for what is to come.

The cross we bear is a heavy burden.

We are people, who see ourselves in others.

Admiring the role models we use to guide us.

We are aliens who live in two worlds. Our dream, and reality, only because what is real depresses us too much.

We are the products of those around us.

Our mistakes should not be completely blamed on us.

We are friends- who look up to one another, who are there for one another, who watch over one another.

Angels in disguise.

We are what God made us to be- messengers of his world for all to hear.

We are stressed out by more than words can express.

Pressured by a realm of right and wrong.

We are rebels- tired of rules made not to benefit us, but to protect others from us.

We are doctors and lawyers that could help- given the chance.

We are benefactors who try our best- but are never appreciated.

We are the failures, left alone to cry out.

We are those who kill- only to be understood.

We are those who are killed - for our ignorance and our innocence.

We are the desolate drug addicts that you stare down- tormented by a world that we cannot change.

We are the vandals- who write profanities because those are the only words that can possibly make you understand the help that we need.

We are the streetwalkers- demoralized for money and respect that we can never achieve.

We are lovers- that have been hurt and scared.

We are students- sitting at our desks staring at the world too monstrous and vacant to accept.

Needing the doors to stay open, as they slam shut in our face.

Jealous of those who hold the golden keys.

We are the innocent- made out to be thieves of more than just material.

We are the victims of poverty stricken homes that society does nothing about.

We are those who who speak, and are only heard not listened to.

We are what we want to be- no more, no less.

We are flames of hope- burning in the wind.

We are dancers- who need to be seen.

We are singers- who want to be heard.

And above all we are children- who deserve to be forgiven.

We are what you mold us to be,

We are your reality your world- just accept us for who we are.

ANOTHER AFTERNOON

Catherine and I tread the small urban puddles of water,
a result of dislevelled concrete.

Mirrored in them is the day's gray murky sky.
The water stills and the letters s'yksneliW are formed.
S'yksneliW is the gibberish reflection for Wilensky's the Montreal diner.

We are on a quest to recreate some aspect of Mordecai
Richler's past.

Literature is one of our common interests.

Instinctively we stare at each other,
there is no need for words.

Understanding takes place through a sort of telepathy.

We realize that our uniforms elicit sneers.

Intimidation looms over us.

Catherine won't budge,

leaving me to test the depth of the water as usual.

I take the first easy step and enter Duddy's diner.

Our eyes set on the cash register, we order and get out.

We hadn't foreseen that being in our uniforms, we would be like the images of a pop up book.

Easily visible and subject to scrutiny.

Warm and greasy "Wilensky's special" sandwiches in hand, we whisk ourselves out of the diner.

Settle ourselves on the humid and cold concrete stairs of a St. Laurent doorway.

Bored and sluggish car passengers point at us.

Their moving lips, seen through steamed windows, emit no sound to us.

We are a funny sight, Catholic schoolgirls in their uniforms in an odd part of town.

Pink puffy noses from the damp weather and school bags packed to the brim.

On wet stairways, looking a little disheveled.

Brought together by our little embarrassments.

Another shared experience of our friendship.

INNOCENT STARS

Look at the sad charcoal sky

That bathes the snow-tipped trees.

The darkness swirls like a ribbon,

The stars embedded in pockets.

Maybe someone can reach in,

Release those twinkling, sharp-edged

Gems that once decorated the empty sky.

I can almost spy their glow

Permeating through this uninviting blanket.

Artificial warmth seeps out of faulty sabotage.

The night has lost its battle.

I can sing my song now, at the sight

Of that one star I see.

I can whisper my wish

And maybe it will grant my happy hope.

Caroline Hacıyaner, Secondary V

Goodbye

It was an hour of crystal-clear perceptions;
Walking into that house,
Permanently saturated with sorrow,
I knew my life would be irrevocably altered.

Icy fingers of fear and anguish clutched my heart;
Shock numbed my mind and made my knees buckle,
As the wintry breath of Death passed over my already frigid flesh.

My grandmother was dead.

I observed, at the parlor, as she lay on her bed of satin,
Surrounded by those she knew and loved, that she was smiling; a Mona
Lisa smile

That betrayed none of her secrets, nothing of herself.
I could see, as I said goodbye, my listlessness in her blank expression.
Could feel the ice encasing my heart in her skin.

I watched as she was closed to me forever;
Condemned to being near but eternally out of my reach.
My tears kissed her mahogany roof,
Blessed her confining new home.

Millions of regrets flitted through my mind over and over again;
I remembered the unfulfilled promises and the weeks I was too busy.
Now, never again will she envelop me in her protecting arms;
No longer will I feel her life and warmth surround me.

My grandmother was dead.

Those four fateful words,
Which brought mourning and utter desolation to me and my family,
Eventually helped me overcome my pain
So that I may truly say farewell to a person so unique and deserving of love.
For I know that one day my grandmother will embrace me once more
With a smile on her face
And love in her heart.

Melisa Colabella, Secondary V

ENDURANCE

If it doesn't kill you
It will only make you stronger.
Smart enough to run
Never brave enough to tell.
Now I look over my shoulder
Walk quickly
Heart beating against my chest
Having to pause
Outside the front door
Waiting for my pulse to drop,
The tears in my ebb.
Knowing that tomorrow
Will be the same.
If this is strength,
I wish it had killed me.

Catherine Snell, Secondary V

LOOK AT ME

Yesterday evening as I rode the bus,
I noticed an elderly man frown at us.
Wanting to find out the cause of his scowl,
I edged up behind him, a wolf on the prowl.
I'd often seen adults wear similar glares.
With no obvious reason for malevolent stares.
It got on my nerves how they looked so put out
Whenever my friends or I was about.
And so at the glower of that cantankerous geezer,
(Which was 10 degrees colder than my basement freezer)
I was set on demanding a definite answer
As I eased up beside him with the grace of a dancer.
I asked him politely, as sweet as can be,
"Please sir, why were you glaring at my friends and me?"
He looked flabbergasted, he seemed quite astounded!

So shocked
I dared ask, he was fully confounded.
The man blinked and he coughed and he took a deep breath
And he cried, "Can't you see? You kids will be my death!
For your elders you teenagers don't give a hoot.
You yell and you shove, you pickpocket and loot.
Each teenager is but a common thug.
If I were on life support, you'd pull the plug!
You kids never listen or respect authority.
You're positively drowning in your own superiority.
When you ride, you teenagers hijack the bus.
You step on our feet and you scream and you cuss!
I want nothing to do with you or your kind.
And so I'll be going now if you don't mind."
"But sir," I replied, now as shocked as he'd been.
"We're not all nasty, we're not all mean!
We work hard at our studies and listen to our teachers.
On Sundays we pray and attend to our preachers.
We strive to achieve the goals we have set.
We surmount the problems and challenges met.
We're so much more than what we may seem
Each one unique, some to the extreme.
Some are hard-working and some are quite lazy.
We laugh and we cry and sometimes we're crazy.
Some of us purposely wear mismatched socks.
Teenagers are an enormous paradox.
We're wise yet naive, we're too young and too old.
We're fast yet we're slow, we're too shy and too bold.
These are the years we find out who we are.
We'll fall many times, but we'll learn from the scar.
We feel as you feel, we think as you think,
Yet by assumptions we're pushed to the brink.
Many glower as you did when they see us approach,
But we don't mean to trespass, don't mean to encroach,
On the world to which you adults have laid claim.
All we ask is the chance to prove false our bad name."
As I looked at the man and he looked at me
I saw what before in his eyes I did not see:
Understanding, compassion, and even respect.
In my own eyes he now saw the same, I suspect.
And I thought to myself how nice it would be,
If we all looked at each other the way he looked at me.

Catherine Evans, Secondary III

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS 2001

How do you leave the place that you've come to know as home? Five years ago, it would have been impossible to know exactly how difficult this final goodbye will be. Our first encounter at Sacred Heart is but a memory, a faded image of unfamiliar halls made less harsh by cheerful, welcoming girls, and teeming with our little faces trying to hide their hope, awe and fear. We stood in a line, wondering... "Could the entrance exam possibly be as easy as Villa's?" and "What on earth is wrong with that girl at the end of the line who made herself sick? It's only an entrance exam." As we waited to take those first, timid steps toward the future, we all asked ourselves the most pressing question; "How much fun could I possibly have at a school without boys?" Oh, how little we knew. Despite this apparent downside, we ended up here, together, and I truly believe that we are better for it.

I have often wondered who I would be, had I never walked through those doors, and today I ask myself also, what my life would be like, had any of you, my fellow graduates and friends, not chosen to spend the past five years of your lives here. Each one of you simply by being yourself has made an imprint on my soul that will stand the test of time. I will forever cling to the little things, the small acts of kindness that existed only within these walls: sending someone the only candy-cane-o-gram she might have received, stooping down to pick up yet another fallen pencil case, lending someone your coat when she'd forgotten hers, taking the train home with a friend though the bus is so much faster, sneaking a hug during the sign of peace at mass, staying after school to hold a crying friend, though you're already late, explaining chemistry to a panicked classmate at 7:30 the morning of a test, telling someone that she is a nice person and meaning it, believing in someone more than she believes in herself, the rides home after basketball, and the smiles. These gestures seem like nothing at the time but you will never know how much these little acts meant.

One of my classmates once told me that if you look hard enough, you can see the good in anyone. As a member of the class of 2001, looking out at your shining faces, I can say that I have never had to strain my eyes. All of you have touched me in ways small or big, and that's exactly why I will miss you so much, and could never forget any of your beautiful smiles.

What lies behind us and what lies before us are small matters compared to what lies within us. While we share a past to be cherished, and our futures promise to be glorious, it is only because the seeds within us have been tended with such great care. We have grown up together, and have matured into beautiful flowers, because those who looked after us were never too busy. We have been showered with care, first by our parents and then by the teachers who devoted so much time to their little seedlings. I can only hope that we have grown tall enough and strong enough to survive and flourish on our own, and to make you proud, for we will never again know the same attention you have so generously given to us.

Now the world awaits and we must leave. The hardest part is knowing that we are all going to move on. No matter where we go from here, we will pursue, and find happiness. What hurts so much is that we are about to begin a completely new chapter in our lives that may not include our best friends and the safe haven of this building, yet time does not stop. Our lives will go on without these elements we once took for granted, and we'll soon fill these voids with new faces and experiences. Nothing will ever be the same, but it won't be bad. We won't live with a dull ache in our hearts, we won't think of each other every waking hour, and we will be happy- but that doesn't mean we will forget. Even with all that is fresh and new, our old friends and mentors will never truly leave us. It is they who have given us so much of themselves, they have taught us that who we are makes a difference, and they are the ones who have given us our smiles. It hurts so much to know that tomorrow we will no longer need each other, but it is a reality, because those closest to our hearts believe in us enough to let us go.

Now, tomorrow has come, and it has come too soon. So how do you leave the place you call home? You walk on, straight through those doors, with your head up high, a smile on your face, and a tear in your eye. Mourning the past, ready to embrace the future. And in your heart, you hold the knowledge that wherever the future will lead you, those who love you, always will. Farewell.

DESIDERATA

Go placidly amid the noise and haste and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others; even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story.

Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexatious to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans.

Keep interested in your own career however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism.

Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass.

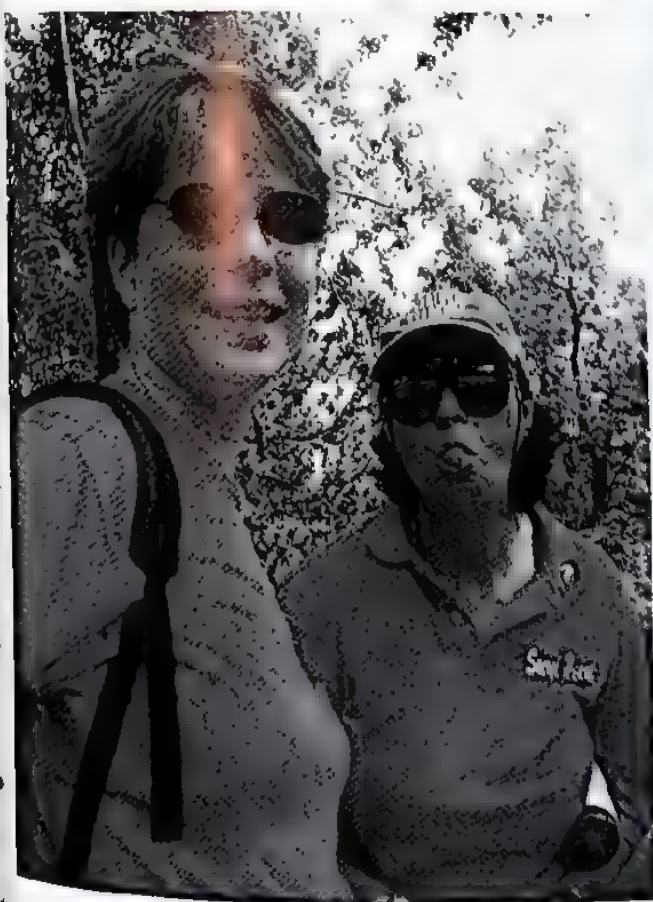

Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself.

You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.

Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul.

With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world.
Be cheerful. Strive to be happy

The Parents' Guild Congratulates The Class of 2000-2001

One day at a time - this is enough.
Do not look back and grieve over the past, for it is gone;
and do not be troubled about the future,
for it has not yet come.
Live in the present, and make it so beautiful that it will be worth remembering.

Ida Scott Taylor
